From the Philadelphia Saturday Courier.

Who can guess it? Sir Hilary charged at Agincourt: Sooth 'twas an awful day; For though in that old age of sport, The rufflers of the camp and court Had little time to pray; Tis said Sir Hilary muttered there

Two syllables by way of prayer. My First to all the brave and proud, Who see to-morrow's sun a My Next, who find to-morrow's shroud,

Before to-day be done; And Altogether to those blue eyes That weep when a noble warrior dies.

Nore .- A friend has handed us the above, but knows not the answer, it indeed it have any. We can't make it out no how we can fix it. Who can !- Ens. Covaring. ABSWEE.

The First is "Bless'd," for blessed were they, The brave and proud who returned that day, As living men from that furious fray,

Where so many found a grave. And the Second "Angel," for it address'd The spirits of those who had gone to rest In the warrior's shroud on the cold earth's breast Where the banners proudly wave.

And Altogether Sir Hilary's prayer, Addressed to his guardian angel there Must be "Bless'd Angel" -his haly fair, Who weeps for the fallen brave. Ottowa, Dec. 17, 1841.
